Library Board of Trustees

Regular Meeting

January 20, 2009 6:30 P.M.

Placentia Library Meeting Room

Administration

To: Library Board of Trustees

From: Jerry Tollefson

Subject: Financial reports, accounting procedures, and treatment of tax dollars

received

1/12/09

Some months ago I asked this question of several Trustees, "Why does the Balance Sheet, presented at monthly Trustee meetings, fail to include the Library funds on deposit in various numbered accounts with the County of Orange?" The November 30, 2008 Balance Sheet excluded these accounts totaling $779,133.93.

Further questions about the financial operations of the Library---

1. The Balance Sheet as of November 30, 2008 reflected a net income in the equity section of $87,884.69. Yet the report to the Trustees did not include an Income Statement supporting that figure, as required under generally accepted accounting principles.

2. Why is the $779,133.93 on deposit in the County of Orange when the Placentia Library District is a stand alone organization?

- a. According to the Certified Audit Report, the Library District has an investment policy authorizing investment in the local government investment policy administered by the County of Orange. This statement, and because you have six other bank accounts, indicates that as a District you can receive the tax money and invest it in something other than the OCIP.
- 3. The Board of Trustees must adopt an annual budget by resolution of the Board of Trustees. Any transfers that alter the total appropriations (expenditures) must be approved by the Board of Trustees.

The District is required to maintain budgetary controls to ensure compliance with the legal provisions embodied in the appropriated budget.

a. A review of the monthly reports to the Trustees does not include a comparison between what has been budgeted and what has been expended.

b. It appears that a cash flow budget is necessary. When the question was asked, "Why do you carry cash balances of almost a million dollars at all times?" The answer was, "We need that to pay the bills until the next tax receipts come in." The next question is, "How do you know that, without a cash flow budget?" This reflects the required expenses by month, which then gives you the required cash on a monthly basis until the next taxes are paid.

c. The CPA's report for 6/30/07 does include a budget that showed the District having a net loss of $1,276,318 for the year ending 6/30/07, but the District ended up a plus $137,046., not very good planning by the Trustees. It did have one expenditure in the budget called contingency $1,233,844.

4. Accounting---

The audit report states that the County of Orange performs all accounting functions and acts as a fiduciary agent.

- a. Where are the accounting reports that are prepaid by the County of Orange? b. An organization with the gross income in excess of 2 million dollars normally would have a staff member with business experience to oversee the business functions and prepare the financial reports that the Board of Trustees should have.
- c. It appears that the County is paying the bills after the Librarian approves and sends them to the County. And yet the District has bank accounts that could be used to pay the bills, eliminating a step and saving the cost the County charges, $18,000.
- 5. One final question, "Why is someone paid $11,000 for pension fund operation and management?"

Memorandum

Jeannette Contreras, Library Director

Placentia Library District

RE:

Request for Refund of Library Facilities Impact Fee

Background

The District has received a request from HQT Homes Bradford L.P for a refund in the amount of $13,416.00 for the amount of the Library Facilities Impact Fee that they paid to the City of Placentia as a condition for issuance of Certificates of Occupancy for the third phase of their residential/condominium development.

Attached to this memo is the cover letter from the attorney for HQT which sets forth their arguments as to why they should not be subject to the Fee. In general, HQT argues that they have a "vesting tentative map" ("VTM") which was approved by the city planning commission on December 15, 2005 and approved by the City Council on January 17, 2006. As result, HQT argues that the only conditions that could be imposed on their development are those that were made part of the conditions of approval for the VTM, which was approved prior to the date of Fee adoption.

Conclusion

Upon a review of HQT's position, supporting documents, and relevant state law, it is our recommendation that the refund be granted and the funds returned to HQT due to the timing of approval of the VTM for the HQT development in 2006 and the fact that the Fee was not adopted until 2008. Since this is a ministerial matter of implementing the policy set by the Board for imposition of this Fee, there is no need for action by the Board to grant the refund. However, we did feel it was important to provide this memo which can be forwarded to the Board, and provide direction to the Library Director, as to the background on this matter and the steps that need to be taken.

According to a City letter dated January 24, 2006, HQT (through a predecessor in interest) received final approval of their VTM on January 17, 2006. California Government Code Section 66498.1 provides, "[w]hen a local agency approves a...[VTM]...that approval shall confer a vested right to proceed with development in substantial compliance with the ordinances, policies, and standards described in Section 66474.2." Section 66474.2(a) provides, "the local agency shall apply only those ordinances, policies, and standards in effect at the date the local agency has determined that the application is complete...." Thus, VTM entitles its possessor to proceed with a development according to the rules and fees that were in place on the date the VTM was approved. (Kaufman v. City of Modesto (1994) 25 Cal.App.4th 1577, 1592)

Although Resolution No. 08-10 was adopted on June 26, 2008, Section 8 provides that it is not to be imposed or collected until at least 60 days have passed, as required by law. The Agreement between the District and the City to collect the fees was not approved until November 18, 2008, at which point a mechanism was in place by which the land use agency(City) became committed to impose the Fee on development applicants.

Section 2 of the Agreement For Collection provides that the District will be responsible for processing and issuing any required refunds of the Fee. Therefore it is recommended that the Library Executive Director process the refund and remit payment to HQT with a cover letter which states as follows:

"Pursuant to the provisions of Resolution 08-10 of the Placentia Library District and the Agreement For Collection Of Library Facilities Impact Fee between the District and the City of Placentia, it would appear that HQT is entitled to a refund of the Library Facilities Impact Fee in the amount of $13,416.00. This refund has been made on the basis that the conditions for approval of HQT's subject development were set by way of that certain VTM 16949 and approval of said VTM predates the effective date of the Library Facilities Impact Fee."

In the case of residential development, Section 1 of the Agreement For Collection provides that the City shall require any individual or entity to which the Fee applies to provide evidence to the City of payment of the Fee prior to the date of final inspection, or the date of the certificate of occupancy is issued, whichever occurs first. It is recommended that City staff be reminded that in the future, in the event of a VTM or similar development approval, the City should make sure to include in any such conditions a reminder that the Fee, in the amounts set by Resolution 08-10, will be due at the time of final inspection or a certificate of occupancy, as applicable. Such advance notice is consistent with the intent of the Agreement For Collection that the development applicant be made aware of said condition and the evidence of payment that will be require and will help to ensure that the Fee will be collected.

Subject: Financial reports, accounting procedures, and treatment of tax dollars

Some months ago I asked this question of several Trustees, "Why does the Balance Sheet, presented at monthly Trustee meetings, fail to include the Library funds on deposit in various numbered accounts with the County of Orange?" The November 30, 2008 Balance Sheet excluded these accounts totaling $779,133.93.

Further questions about the financial operations of the Library---

- 1. The Balance Sheet as of November 30, 2008 reflected a net income in the equity section of $87,884.69. Yet the report to the Trustees did not include an Income Statement supporting that figure, as required under generally accepted accounting principles.
- 2. Why is the $779,133.93 on deposit in the County of Orange when the Placentia Library District is a stand alone organization?
- a. According to the Certified Audit Report, the Library District has an investment policy authorizing investment in the local government investment policy administered by the County of Orange. This statement, and because you have six other bank accounts, indicates that as a District you can receive the tax money and invest it in something other than the OCIP.
- 3. The Board of Trustees must adopt an annual budget by resolution of the Board of Trustees. Any transfers that alter the total appropriations (expenditures) must be approved by the Board of Trustees.

The District is required to maintain budgetary controls to ensure compliance with the legal provisions embodied in the appropriated budget.

- a. A review of the monthly reports to the Trustees does not include a comparison between what has been budgeted and what has been expended.
- b. It appears that a cash flow budget is necessary. When the question was asked, "Why do you carry cash balances of almost a million dollars at all times?" The answer was, "We need that to pay the bills until the next tax receipts come in." The next question is, "How do you know that, without a cash flow budget?" This reflects the required expenses by month, which then gives you the required cash on a monthly basis until the next taxes are paid.

c. The CPA's report for 6/30/07 does include a budget that showed the District having a net loss of $1,276,318 for the year ending 6/30/07, but the District ended up a plus $137,046., not very good planning by the Trustees. It did have one expenditure in the budget called contingency $1,233,844.

4. Accounting---

The audit report states that the County of Orange performs all accounting functions and acts as a fiduciary agent.

- a. Where are the accounting reports that are prepaid by the County of Orange? b. An organization with the gross income in excess of 2 million dollars normally would have a staff member with business experience to oversee the business functions and prepare the financial reports that the Board of Trustees should have.
- c. It appears that the County is paying the bills after the Librarian approves and sends them to the County. And yet the District has bank accounts that could be used to pay the bills, eliminating a step and saving the cost the County charges, $18,000.
- 5. One final question, "Why is someone paid $11,000 for pension fund operation and management?"

Governor Says State Heads Toward 'Financial Armageddon'

Last week, Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger announced that California is "heading toward a financial Armageddon." The governor revealed new state budget deficit projections, now at $41.8 billion through June 2010, thanks mostly to sharp declines in revenue. Schwarzenegger also unveiled a "clock" counting California's growing budget deficit as lawmakers fail to act. It includes a counter showing the deficit rising $470 each second, which works out to $40 million each day. Read more about the current budget situation...

Lead testing law won't apply to thrift stores

Federal regulators say secondhand stores won't be required to test children's merchandise for lead.

By Alana Semuels

After a barrage of complaints, federal regulators shifted gears Thursday and said they would no longer require that used children's clothing, toys and other items sold at secondhand stores be tested for lead.

Thrift and consignment store operators had protested that they couldn't afford to pay for the testing, and that doing so would require them to stop selling some goods or even go out of business.

New safety rules for children's...

Officials with the Consumer Product Safety Commission initially said that thrift stores couldn't sell any clothes, toys or other merchandise for children younger than 12 that had not been tested for lead starting Feb. 10, as required by the Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act passed by Congress last year.

Outraged thrift store owners blitzed the commission with objections, and on Tuesday the two-member panel gave preliminary approval of several measures to exempt products made from natural materials, such as cotton and wood, from the rules.

But the commission said those exemptions would not be formally adopted before the testing requirement went into effect Feb. 10, fueling continued protests.

On Thursday the agency backed away even more, issuing a statement saying that "sellers of used children's products, such as thrift stores and consignment stores, are not required to certify that those products meet the new lead limits \dots or new toy standards."

Commission members Thomas Moore and Nancy Nord could not be reached for comment. But a statement issued by the commission suggested the retreat was driven by practical concerns.

"The agency intends to focus its enforcement efforts on products of greatest risk and largest exposure," the statement said.

Although testing is not required, agency spokeswoman Julie Vallese emphasized that secondhand shops cannot sell products that exceed the lead limits and should avoid products that may contain lead. That may mean, for example, that such shops need to be more vigilant about recall notices. It became illegal to sell recalled products on Aug. 14, 2008, the day the measure was signed into law.

Despite the commission's action, some merchants and manufacturers remain confused about the new law and their potential liability.

"If the intention is not to throw a small store owner in jail, why don't they just change the law to make it read that way?" said Cynthia Broockman, who owns two consignment stores in Virginia.

Commission officials say they cannot change the actual law -- that's up to Congress -- and have discretion only over how it is enforced.

Thursday's guidance didn't please everyone. Children's clothing manufacturers still have to comply with the law, which means that small businesses that make children's clothing must pay to get their clothing tested or close their doors. Toy makers also must still comply.

The American Apparel and Footwear Assn. is lobbying the commission to rule that components of clothing be tested before the products are made. That would save clothing makers valuable time and money, said Stephen Lamar, the organization's executive vice president. The association also hopes to extend the Feb. 10 deadline to give businesses some breathing room.

Most big merchants and manufacturers say they can handle the cost of compliance. But Stephanie Wood of Ojai, who owns a clothing line called "Can You Dig It? Organic Apparel," says she will be forced to close shop. Wood's line is made from organically grown cotton and dyed with eco-friendly fiber reactive dyes, but she'll still be required to pay $15,000 to test her line, a cost she can't afford in the current economy.

Publishers and libraries say that they, too, make products that are not dangerous to children but will have to be tested under the current interpretation of the law. Allan Adler, vice president for legal and government affairs at the Assn. of American Publishers, says that only one children's book has been recalled in the last 20 years because of its lead content — and that book had a metallic spiral binding.

"When the Feb. 10 deadline comes, we're going to see books taken off shelves of classrooms, libraries and bookstores," Adler said.

GOVERNOR'S REMARKS

Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger Delivers State of the State Address

GOVERNOR SCHWARZENEGGER: Thank you very much. Thank you. Thank you very much, Lieutenant Governor Garamendi, for the nice introduction. Chief Justice George, President Pro-tem Steinberg, Speaker Bass, Senate Republican Leader Cogdill, Assembly Republican Leader Villines, members of the legislature, ladies and gentlemen.

First of all, I want to congratulate the four that have been responsible for creating, really, the Martin Luther King holiday. So I want to say thank you because Martin Luther King has been a great hero who has given his life for justice and for equality and has been a great inspiration not only to Americans but to people all over the world. So congratulations to all of them. Let's give them a hand, again, for the great work that they have done. (Applause)

I also want to take this opportunity to just thank a few people, because all this hard work is not done just by me or the Horseshoe, there are a lot of people involved. First of all I want to say thank you very much to my wife and the First Lady of California for her extraordinary work on the Women's Conference or on promoting earned income tax credit or the volunteers, California Volunteers, or the Hall of Fame or the California Museum and the list goes on and on and on. Let's give her a great hand for the great work that she is doing. (Applause)

Then I also want to take this opportunity to say thank you to my staff that has been working so tirelessly, not only during the day but sometimes at night and on the weekends and so on and especially also my Chief of Staff Susan Kennedy. Thank you very much for all the great work that all of you are doing. Thank you. (Applause)

And I also want to say thank you to the staffs of the legislature, because we are not by ourselves down there; you guys, you have terrific staff, hardworking staff that come down there and work with us also again many hours during days, nights and weekends, so we want to say thank you also to them for all of that. (Applause)

Now, we meet in times of great hope for our nation, although we hear the drumbeat of news about bailouts, bankruptcies and Ponzi schemes, the nation with great anticipation is also awaiting the inauguration of a new president. Our nation should be proud of President-elect Obama's election and what it says to the world about American openness and renewal.

You know, President Reagan used to tell about a letter that he got from a man who said that you can go and live in Turkey but you can't become a Turk. You can go and live in Japan but you can't become Japanese. And he went through various different countries like that but the man said anyone from any corner of the world can come to America and become an American. (Applause)

I know that we know that any American child now also, no matter what corner of the world his father or mother comes from, can even become president of the United States. What a wonderful national story for us. This nation rightfully feels the hope of change.

Californians, of course, desire change here in their own state as well. Yet they have doubts, if that is possible, because for months in the face of a crisis we have been unable to reach agreement on the largest budget deficit in our history. We are in our third special session and we have declared a fiscal emergency and every day that goes by makes the budget problem that much harder to solve.

As a result of all of this, California, the eighth largest economy in the world, faces insolvency within weeks. The legislature is currently in the midst of serious and good faith negotiations to solve this crisis, negotiations that are being conducted in the knowledge that we have no alternative but to find agreement.

The importance of the negotiations' success goes far beyond the economic and human impact. People are asking if California is governable. They wonder about the need of a Constitutional convention. They don't understand how we could have let political dysfunction paralyze our state for so long. In recent years they have seen more gridlock in Sacramento than on our roads, if that is possible.

I will not give the traditional state of the state address here today because the reality is that our state is incapacitated until we solve the budget crisis. The truth is that California is in a state of emergency.

Addressing this emergency is the first and most important and greatest thing that we must do for the people of California. The $42 billion deficit is a rock upon our chest and we cannot breathe until we get it off. It doesn't make any sense for me to talk here today and stand in front of you and talk about education or infrastructure or water or health care reform and all of those things, when we have this huge budget deficit. I will talk about my vision for all of those things and much more as soon as we get the budget done. So no, I did not come here to deliver the normal list of accomplishments and proposals. I came just simply to encourage this body to continue the hard work that you are doing behind closed doors. I know we're going to get it done.

There is a context, of course and a history to the negotiations that are underway. It is not that California is ungovernable; it is that for too long we have been split by ideology. Conan's sword could not have cleaved our political system in two as cleanly as our own political parties have done. Over time ours has become a system where rigid ideology has been rewarded and pragmatic compromise has been punished. And where has this led us? I think you would agree that in recent years California's legislature has been engaged sometimes in civil war. Meanwhile, the needs of the people became secondary. Our citizens do not believe that we in government are in touch with their needs.

Now, these needs are not unreasonable, may I remind you. At the end of the day most people do not require a great deal from their government. They expect just simply the fundamentals. They want to live in safety, they want good education for their children, they want jobs, they want to breathe clean air, they want water when they turn on the faucet, they want electricity when they turn on the switch and they want those things delivered efficiently and economically.

One of the reasonable expectations that the public has of government is that it will produce a sound and balanced budget. That is what the legislative leaders are struggling to do right now. There is no course left for us but this; to work together, to sacrifice together and to think of the common good and not our individual good.

Now, of course no one wants to take money from our gang fighting programs or from Medi Cal or from education. Of course not. No one wants to pay more taxes or fees. But each of us has to give up something, because our country is in an economic crisis and our state simply doesn't have the money.

In December we even had to suspend funding that affects 2,000 plus infrastructure projects that were already underway. So now the bulldozers are silent. The nail guns are still. The cement trucks are parked. This disruption has stopped work on levees and housing and schools and roads, on everything. It has thrown thousands and thousands of people out of work at a time when our unemployment rate is rising and when people really need the jobs. How could we have let something like this happen?

I know that everyone in this room wants to hear again the sound of construction. No one wants unemployment checks replacing paychecks. So I'm encouraged that meaningful negotiations are underway. And as difficult as the budget will be, good things can come out of it. Because in spite of the budget crisis, when we have worked together in the past, we have passed measures, extraordinary measures that move the state and even the country forward.

When a budget agreement is reached, when some of the raw emotions have passed, I will send the legislators the package of legislative goals and proposals that the Governor traditionally sends. These proposals are sitting on my desk right now.

And let me tell you, I have big plans for this state. They include action on the economy, on water, the environment, education and healthcare reform, government efficiency and reform, job creation and the list goes on and on.

But our first order of business is to solve the budget crisis. And talking about budget, I have a great idea going forward. As you know, for the last 20 years of budgeting only four budgets have been on time. So if you don't mind, let me just make a little suggestion. We should make a commitment that the legislators and the Governor too, lose per diem expenses and our paychecks for every day that the budget goes past the constitutional deadline which is June 15th. I mean, you have to admit this is a brilliant idea and look at the happy faces I see now. I love that.

I mean, if you call a taxi and the taxi doesn't show up, you don't have to pay the driver. So if the people's work doesn't get done, I think the people's representatives shouldn't get paid either. That is common sense in the real world.

And, of course, I will send you some other reforms as well. I thought that this line would get a great applause in this hall but I understand why not.

Let me close by saying something about the fires of 2008. At one point I got a phone call that we had 875 wildfires burning all at the same time. I said to myself, how could we deal with this? The next morning I got another phone call: Governor, there are now 2014 fires burning all at the same time, the largest number on record. Imagine, 2000 plus fires. What a huge challenge. But every one of those fires was put out. And you know why? Because we have the best trained and the most selfless and the toughest firefighters in the nation. Let's give them a big hand. (Applause)

Thirteen of whom lost their lives. They gave their lives for this state. Think about that. They gave their lives for this state.

Ladies and gentlemen, the courageous example of those firefighters should not be lost in us. In our own way we too must show courage in serving the public.

Ladies and gentlemen, let this be the year of political courage. Let us be courageous for the people. Let us be courageous for the common good of California. Let us resolve the budget crisis so that we can get

As you know the cost of noncompliance or litigation can be very high and it is essential for companies to stay informed about the law, new developments and important trends. To help you meet this challenge, we will once again be presenting our annual NEW LAWS UPDATE.

Our speakers will be employment law attorneys R. Craig Scott and Anita York from the firm of Scott & Whitehead. They will share information and insights on new legislation and key court decisions. Craig always provides a comprehensive handout and this year will be no exception. With the recent changes in FMLA, meal and rest periods and other important areas, you cannot afford to miss this program. Updates will address such issues as:

- ❖ New wage and hour requirements applicable to all employers who "contract with clients or customers to supply workers to perform services"
- Changes in minimum pay for certain exempt workers
- New penalties applicable to improper or inaccurate release agreements
- ❖ Passport Cards for Identification on I-9 form
- ❖ Prohibitions on text messaging and emailing while driving
- Guidelines regarding what an employer can and cannot prohibit with respect to "political speech" in the workplace
- ❖ IRS standard mileage rate change
- ❖ Mandatory Earned Income Tax Credit Notice

In addition to these and several other statutory updates, the status of the recent meal and break period rules will be discussed in detail, as well as other important case law changes. Finally, as you may have heard, the Department of Labor has finally issued its new regulations related to medical leaves, family care leaves and various leaves of absence related to military personnel and their family members. While these rules are mandatory for employers with 50 or more employees, they provide important guidance that may prove helpful and instructive to all employers.

These benefits will require funding throughout the fiscal years for all employees who work a regular shift of 20-40 hours per week. An estimate of benefits based on current part-time employees of the District, those working 20-39 hours per week, will cost the District approximately $36,000 per year. This cost does not include policy numbers 2100, 2120 and 2140 and a Cost of Living Adjustment (COLA). Most libraries do not provide benefits to part-time employees and those that do provide them have been grandfathered into the system.

In addition, the current Placentia Library District personnel manual does not provide a clear definition of part-time status. It is necessary for the Policy to encompass a definition that provides the employees with an understanding of part-time status. The definition needs to include the business necessity component enabling the District to fluctuate hours based on business necessity.

Typically part-time employees work fewer hours in a day or during a work week than full-time employees. They may also be those who only work during certain parts of the year. Federal law defines a part-time employee as one who works less than 1,000 hours a year for the same employer. This annual total averages out to about 17.5 hours per week. Businesses hire part-time workers to fulfill a high function that does not necessarily require their continuous presence and employers take advantage of the availability of skilled workers to meet their business needs.

Folks Are Flocking to the Library, a Cozy Place to Look for a Job

Books, Computers and Wi-Fi Are Free, But Staffs Are Stressed by Crowds, Cutbacks

By JIM CARLTON

TRACY, Calif. -- The financial crisis has caused a lot of withdrawals at the public library.

A few years ago, public libraries were being written off as goners. The Internet had made them irrelevant, the argument went. But libraries across the country are reporting jumps in attendance of as much as 65% over the past year, as newly unemployed people flock to branches to fill out résumés and scan ads for job listings.

Other recession-weary patrons are turning to libraries for cheap entertainment -- killing time with the free computers, video rentals and, of course, books.

Last Friday, there was a particularly long waiting list of 157 to check out the popular vampire novel "Twilight," by Stephenie Meyer, from a branch of the Stockton-San Joaquin County Library here in Tracy. This central California town has been ravaged by mortgage foreclosures, and area libraries report a surge of traffic. Shamika Miller huddled over a laptop at the Tracy branch. Laid off from her job as a bookkeeper at Home Depot more than a year ago, Ms. Miller, 29 years old, says she has visited the library "if not every day, every other day" since October to check job listings with her computer.

"I come here, first of all, because it's a free Wi-Fi spot," says Ms. Miller, who supports a 10-year-old daughter on her unemployment compensation. And, she says, "there's something about the library that helps you think, at least for me."

At the Ferguson Library in Stamford, Conn., "it's not unusual for us to have 40 or 50 reserves on a popular book," says spokeswoman Linda Avellar. At the Randolph County Public Library in Asheboro, N.C., a 25% increase in visitors over the past six months from a year ago has been hard on 14-year-old carpeting that officials say needs to be replaced now rather than in six years, as planned.

This isn't the first time library attendance has spiked in a downturn. The 1987 and 2001 recessions saw similar jumps, librarians say. But few people thought that libraries would again be in such favor after so much information flooded the Web.

One big draw: Most libraries have put in free computer and Wi-Fi service. And they've begun stocking DVDs and videogames. With the recession weighing on them, "people recognize what a great value the public library is," says Jim Rettig, president of the American Library Association in Chicago.

Librarians are turning into job counselors — and even social workers — as they have to deal with a sometimes-desperate new class of patrons. "They are frustrated, overwhelmed and thought they would not be job hunting again in their lives," says Jan Perrier, head of reference and adult services at the Roxbury Public Library in Succasunna, N.J. "I had one woman just so overwhelmed she sat in front of the PC and cried."

Many jobless people are reporting to the library as they used to report to the office. Career books are in particularly great demand at the Morris County Library in Whippany, N.J. "The shelves are bare," says Lynne Olver, chief librarian there. She says attendance in "Career Resource Seminars" that the library has held for many years jumped to 745 in 2008, from 472 in 2007.

Others come in to escape their troubles for a while. Wesley Martin on Friday tapped his hands to the beat of a hip-hop video he was watching on one of the Tracy library's computers. "This is just a chance for me to get out of my house," said the 33-year-old, who lost his job at a discount store a month ago.

The sheer numbers of jobless visitors are overwhelming some libraries at a time of funding cuts by cash-strapped local agencies. The library in Winter Park, Fla., reports a 25% increase in checkouts of its books and other materials over the past 15 months, even as its budget for stocking new items has been cut 12%.

Some libraries are cutting their hours, reducing staff or even being closed altogether because of budget problems. The Schenectady County Public Library in Schenectady, N.Y., says it has had no money to replace four librarians who have left in the past two years. "As a result, we recently found that it is taking up to five days to reshelf books, as just one tiny example of the impact," says Karen Bradley, a reference librarian there.

The Randolph County library in North Carolina can't afford to replace those rugs: "We are just going to have to live with the worn carpet for now," says Suzanne Tate, the library's director. An average of 230 people a day line up to use the library's 27 computers. To help manage the traffic, the library has taken to bumping users off if they try to stay on for more than the one-hour limit.

But the patrons keep coming. "Many times a day there is a line of people waiting to get on one of our three computers," says Mary Wright, director of the Marks-Quitman County Library in Marks, Miss., who says many of the new patrons are laid-off workers from nearby casinos.

Tracy library officials have ordered nine more Internet-access computers. For now, patrons have to line up at a kiosk to make a reservation to use one of the 11 existing terminals, says Kathleen Buffleben, the supervising librarian.

At a checkout counter nearby in the Tracy library, Brandon Perry, 24, and his fiancée, Chardenac Van Rooter, 21, were applying for library cards Friday to aid in their job searches. The couple, who were with their 1-year-old daughter, said they support themselves largely on part-time restaurant work by Mr. Perry, who was laid off as a heavy-equipment operator at a ski resort a year ago. On top of their other troubles, the couple said they were forced to move into a homeless shelter a few weeks ago after a relative's home where they were staying was foreclosed on.

"Now," says Mr. Perry, "we just want to go to Hawaii. We don't have a computer, so we'll start coming here to find a job there."

received

Some months ago I asked this question of several Trustees, "Why does the Balance Sheet, presented at monthly Trustee meetings, fail to include the Library funds on deposit in various numbered accounts with the County of Orange?" The November 30, 2008 Balance Sheet excluded these accounts totaling $779,133.93.

Further questions about the financial operations of the Library---

- 1. The Balance Sheet as of November 30, 2008 reflected a net income in the equity section of $87,884.69. Yet the report to the Trustees did not include an Income Statement supporting that figure, as required under generally accepted accounting principles.
- 2. Why is the $779,133.93 on deposit in the County of Orange when the Placentia Library District is a stand alone organization?
- a. According to the Certified Audit Report, the Library District has an investment policy authorizing investment in the local government investment policy administered by the County of Orange. This statement, and because you have six other bank accounts, indicates that as a District you can receive the tax money and invest it in something other than the OCIP.
- 3. The Board of Trustees must adopt an annual budget by resolution of the Board of Trustees. Any transfers that alter the total appropriations (expenditures) must be approved by the Board of Trustees.

The District is required to maintain budgetary controls to ensure compliance with the legal provisions embodied in the appropriated budget.

- a. A review of the monthly reports to the Trustees does not include a comparison between what has been budgeted and what has been expended.
- b. It appears that a cash flow budget is necessary. When the question was asked, "Why do you carry cash balances of almost a million dollars at all times?" The answer was, "We need that to pay the bills until the next tax receipts come in." The next question is, "How do you know that, without a cash flow budget?" This reflects the required expenses by month, which then gives you the required cash on a monthly basis until the next taxes are paid.

c. The CPA's report for 6/30/07 does include a budget that showed the District having a net loss of $1,276,318 for the year ending 6/30/07, but the District ended up a plus $137,046., not very good planning by the Trustees. It did have one expenditure in the budget called contingency $1,233,844.

4. Accounting---

The audit report states that the County of Orange performs all accounting functions and acts as a fiduciary agent.

- a. Where are the accounting reports that are prepaid by the County of Orange? b. An organization with the gross income in excess of 2 million dollars normally would have a staff member with business experience to oversee the business functions and prepare the financial reports that the Board of Trustees should have.
- c. It appears that the County is paying the bills after the Librarian approves and sends them to the County. And yet the District has bank accounts that could be used to pay the bills, eliminating a step and saving the cost the County charges, $18,000.
- 5. One final question, "Why is someone paid $11,000 for pension fund operation and management?"
