Ellie Mack suddenly disappeared one day, and ever since then, her mom has been grieving her loss. Ellie's case is still a mystery to her mom, even 10 years later. Ellie's mom, Laurel, meets someone who happens to have a daughter that resembles her own daughter, Ellie. When she meets his daughter, Poppy, Laurel gets curious again about her own daughter and what happened to her. To the point where she starts questioning everything that is happening.

This book was so interesting that I set my homework aside to continue reading. When I tried to stop reading I just had to continue because I needed to find out what was going to happen next. I can say this was one of those books that kept you hooked and hooked you so well, you needed to be reading in your free time. I think my favorite character was the mom, Laurel, because she kept trying to find out what happened to her own daughter and many can relate to this. I just felt amazed with her determination and strength.

I recommend this book to anyone who loves plot twists, page-turners, and thriller books. I would recommend this book to anyone who wants just something interesting to read. I picked up this book thinking I wasn't going to like it but I enjoyed reading it. This book reminds me of the book I read before called Good Girl's Guide to Murder by Holly Jackson because both female characters try to solve a closed case to get it resolved.
