Call to Order

1. Preliminaries

President Coolidge called the meeting to order at 7:30 A.M.

2. Review Minutes of May 10, 1999 Executive Committee Meeting.

Minutes approved as submitted.

3. Financial Report

The Treasurers Report reported a cash balance.

4. LAFCO Matters

Bill Goodwin reported on the meeting held in the Community of Rancho Santa Margarita on May 26th. The meeting was attended by approximately 200 people with numerous speakers addressing questions of which areas of the community would be included or not included in the proposed incorporation.

5. CSDA Report

Russell Paris distributed a Summary of the Board of Directors meeting held on May 18, 1999. (copy attached)

Russell also commented on a recent newspaper article reporting rate increases in the City of Garden Grove for sanitation/disposal services. Discussion of this caused the Committee to review the question of how to convince LAFCO to conduct post-implementation audits that would evaluate the effectiveness of consolidations.

Everyone in attendance commented during the discussion expressing various opinions on the matter. LAFCO does not have funding to conduct the audits and is probably not inclined to do them under any circumstances. It was noted that since ISDOC is most interested in the audits being conducted that we should be determining how to accomplish that. President Coolidge asked Ron Kennedy to chair a committee that would look at this in more detail and report back to the Executive Committee as soon as possible. Bob Hanson and Russell Paris volunteered to participate.

6. Legislative Report

Keith Coolidge reviewed the status of several bills being considered by the legislature in the next few weeks. Keith reported on conversations with ACWA and CSDA representatives regarding the generally poor response from member agencies to requests for letters and telephone calls indicating a "position" on priority bills. The "grass roots" efforts by these organizations has not been very effective. Committee discussion indicated that there was confusion about what each agency was doing and how it influenced this response. Attached is a summary of several bills that ISDOC has taken a position on.

7. Other Concerns/Comments

Keith provided a meeting notice for the next League of Cities Meeting as promised.

8. Adjourn

The meeting was adjourned at 8:50 a.m.

Dated June 1, 1999

Respectfully submitted,

RE: Assembly Bill 60 (Knox)
 8-Hour Day/Overtime Pay

Assembly Bill 60 by Assembly Member Knox, that would reinstate the so-called "8-hour day," passed the Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday.

During the hearing, Assembly Member Knox clarified that the provisions of the bill do not relate to local government. Amendments taken on June 24 reinstate the exemption for local governments as previously contained in wage orders adopted by the Industrial Welfare Commission.

Since the bill requires the Industrial Welfare Commission to review all of the existing wage orders by July 1, 2000, and where appropriate adopt revisions thereto, we will have to monitor the activities of the Commission next year to ensure local governments retain the exemption from the requirements for overtime pay after 8 hours.

In sum, AB 60 does not impact the operations of special districts.

FROM: Ralph A. HeimRE: State Budget Update

Early last evening the Assembly completed its work on the 1999-2000 State Budget. The vote on the Budget Bill was 69-to-10. What a difference a day makes.

The Assembly also passed all of the trailer bills, including Assembly Bill 1661, that contains the ERAF relief provisions. The vote on AB 1661 was 78-to-0.

The Budget Bill and the trailer bills are now in the hands of Governor Davis. He has made it clear that he will sign the Budget and trailer bills prior to July 1st, the constitutional deadline. The Governor has also hinted that he will blue pencil various spending items to bring the Budget more in line with his spending/Budget reserve priorities.

With respect to AB 1661, permit me to clarify a number of issues contained therein. First, the bill provides $75 million, one-time fiscal relief to cities, counties and special districts based upon their proportional ERAF losses. Based upon the 1998-99 ERAF shift, counties contribute 76.48%; cities contribute 15.92%; and special districts contribute 7.60%.

Re: State Budget Update

Based upon the above calculations, special districts will receive approximately $5.7 million statewide. It is important to note that while the allocation of the $75 million to cities, counties and special districts is based on each local agency's ERAF losses, the $75 million will be returned to each eligible local agency in the form of State General Fund revenues, not property tax revenues.

Put another way, given that the $75 million is one-time revenue, should the Governor sign AB 1661, rather than the county auditors increasing each agency's property tax in accordance with its share of the $75 million, only to increase each agency's ERAF contribution by $75 million next year, the $75 million will come from the State General Fund, allocated to each county for allocation to each eligible agency within the county, based upon each eligible agency's ERAF loss formula within each county.

Finally, I have used the term "eligible" a number of times as only local agencies that lost property tax revenues to the ERAF will be eligible for a share of the $75 million.

The second major provision contained in AB 1661 relates to capping the ERAF in 2000-2001, but only if a constitutional amendment is passed by the voters in November 2000, the contents of which are yet to be defined.

The Governor and many within the Legislature want both structural and fiscal reforms relative to local government finance prior to additional ERAF relief, including the capping thereof. To that end, Senator Steve Peace will convene a conference committee later this Summer to begin work on the constitutional amendment.

While Senator Peace and others have expressed grave concerns over the growing trend by cities and counties to aggressively seek out and site sales tax generating facilities, such as shopping and auto malls, which they believe leads to poor planning decisions, the conference committee will not limit itself to only this issue.

The idea of shifting a portion of the local sales tax back to the State in exchange for a like amount of property tax will be a serious discussion element for the conference committee as a means of moving the local planning process back to a more property tax-driven siting process.

Re: State Budget Update

One cannot discuss local government fiscal reform without revisiting the current property tax allocation formula that was adopted by the Legislature in 1979 after the passage of Proposition 13. That formula is commonly referred to as the "AB 8" formula, referencing Assembly Bill 8 of 1979.

Any modification of the AB 8 formula, assuming the lack of additional revenues therein, will create new winners and losers. Therefore, the AB 8 formula will be one of the more controversial subjects discussed by the conference committee.

It is anticipated that the conference committee members will be named prior to the scheduled Summer Recess that is scheduled to begin on July 16th. I will provide you with the names once they have been selected.

RE: NEWS FROM THE CAPITOL

GOVERNOR SIGNS BUDGET - $18 MILLION MORE FOR LIBRARIES

Shortly before noon today the Governor held a press conference on the steps of the Capitol to announce his action on the 1999-2000 state Budget, including a decision to fund the Public Library Foundation (PLF) by an additional $18 million over last year's Budget. You will recall that the Budget contained a $20 million augmentation for the PLF, which the Governor has decided to reduce by $2 million. Below is the Governor's message related to this action:

"Item 6120-221-0001 - For local assistance, California State Library. I reduce this item from $58,870,000 to $56,870,000.

I am reducing $2,000,000 of the $20,000,000 augmentation provided for the Public Library Foundation. I am very supportive of additional funding for local public libraries and see them as a key component to increasing literacy. With this augmentation, I am increasing the program by more than 45 percent. This amount, coupled with last year's augmentation, increases funding for public libraries by almost 150 percent over the two year period."

The Governor announced in his press conference that he was forced to make $585 million in total vetoes to sustain a healthy reserve. We are very pleased with the Governor's action and trust that the additional funds will be of tremendous help and use to libraries throughout the State. Thank you to all who wrote letters to the Governor on behalf of the PLF funding.

LIBRARY BOND BILL IS HEADED TO SENATE FLOOR

Yesterday afternoon the Senate Appropriations Committee passed SB 3 by Senators Richard Rainey, John Burton, and Dede Alpert on a vote of 11-0.

California Library , 03:38 PM 6/29/99 , CLA Lobbyist Update

You will recall that the $1 billion Library Construction and Renovation Bond Act had been placed on the Senate Appropriations "suspense file" where it was to be scheduled for discussion by the legislative leaders after the state Budget was handled. Late last week we received word that there had been an agreement to move SB 3 from the "suspense file" and to the Senate Floor for a vote. Our office met with key Appropriations staff and leaders to encourage that the bill move forward, while continuing to contain the $1 billion price tag.

When the bill was taken up for vote yesterday, Senator Rainey offered technical amendments to the bill which allowed several legislators to sign on to the bill as co-authors (Senators Karnette, Kelley, Perata, and Assemblymembers Bock, Cardenas, Davis, Jackson, Kuehl, Leach, Lempert, Mazzone, Romero, Scott, Washington, and Wildman). He then stressed the immediacy with which the 1988 bond funding was utilized, while leaving many projects unfunded. Senator Rainey called the ability to only fund 24 projects during that cycle, "a drop in the bucket." He added that many library structures are currently "so outdated that they can't even hardwire them for technology." Testifying in support of SB 3 was CLA, CSAC, Contra Costa County, and the Urban Counties Caucus. Members voting "aye" on the measure were Senators Johnston, Leslie, Alpert, Bowen, Burton, Escutia, Karnette, Kelley, McPherson, Perata, and Vasconcellos. Choosing to abstain were Senators Johnson and Mountjoy.

The CLA Bond Task Force, over the last several weeks, has greatly intensified its efforts to flood the "Big 5" - legislative leaders and the Governor with letters, encouraging them to allow SB 3 to be a part of the ongoing bond negotiations. The "Big 5" will, in the next few months, likely determine what bond measures will be on the March and November 2000 ballots.

A very positive article in yesterday's Sacramento Bee, entitled, "Libraries finally getting funding help," (pg. A3) has also helped to elevate the issue of SB 3. We hope to continue this strong momentum, and encourage you to keep your letters coming to the "Big 5" leaders.

PARTICIPANTS' DISTRIBUTION LIST

Re: In re County of Orange - Status of Pending Litigation

Dear Pool Participants:

We continue to monitor the status of various post-bankruptcy matters.

On June 28, 1999, U.S. District Judge Gary Taylor heard the Representative's Motions for Good Faith Settlement on the remaining litigation matters, including the Representative's case against Standard & Poor's and various broker-dealers. The motions were granted and the Representative's litigation efforts are nearing completion.

The Representative informs me that approximately $860,723,573.03 will be recovered from the settlements of the various litigation matters. Assuming no further appeals are filed, he anticipates that he will be in the position to seek Bankruptcy Court approval for distribution of the proceeds which should occur before calendar year end. We will provide you with additional information concerning the distributions as the date approaches.

Thank you for your continued support of the Committee.

Very truly yours,

Dear Gates Library Initiative

As the President of the Board of Trustees of Placentia Library District that is currently applying for the Gates Library Initiative (GLI) Grant, I offer this letter of support. (Placentia Library District is an independent special library district, established and operated by an elected Board of Trustees under the provisions of Section 19600, Chapter 9 of the Education Code of the State of California.) My support extends to both the Library's efforts to expand the availability of public access computers and the Internet in our community, as well as to the guiding principle of the GLI grants: to expand the availability of public access computing, and to provide access to the Internet and to digital information through the public library.

In supporting this application, I agree to the following:

1. The grant funds will be an incremental increase to other current and anticipated library funding and will not replace previously budgeted items.
2. All good faith efforts will be made to sustain the public access computing capability established by this grant. Such efforts will be aimed at assuring that all computers and peripheral equipment are kept fully operational and appropriately supplied. Also, every effort will be made to assure adequate public funding for the proper maintenance and eventual replacement of the equipment provided by this grant.

By signing this letter, I affirm that I have reviewed the application materials and understand that there will be costs associated with receiving a GLI grant that are not covered by the grant. These expenses may include, but are not limited to, staff, construction/remodeling, furniture, material and supplies, ongoing telecommunication costs and non-granted software and hardware. I agree to provide all available support to assist the Library in covering these costs.

Yours truly,

Al Shkoler, President
Placentia Library District Board of Trustees

The Annual Meeting of the Special District Risk Management Authority will be held on Wednesday, October 20, 1999 at the Radisson Hotel, in Sacramento. The scheduled time is 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. The meeting will be held in conjunction with our Education Day/Safety Claims Workshop. One of the primary purposes of this meeting is the election of SDRMA's Board of Directors.

PLEASE NOTE THIS IS A CHANGE FROM PRIOR YEARS. Our Annual meetings/elections have been held in conjunction with CSDA's Annual Conference. This year we will not be holding our Annual Meeting at CSDA's conference. The decision to change locations was based, in part, because more of our members attend our workshops rather than CSDA's conference. Our Board is hopeful this new format will improve the election process.

At this meeting, there will be an election for three (3) seats on the Board. SDRMA has a six member Board of Directors. Five (5) directors are elected at large by SDRMA member districts/agencies. One (1) Director is appointed by CSDA's Board of Directors. The director terms are four (4) years. Enclosed is information about the nomination and election process. There have been changes in the election process, please read this information carefully.

If you have any questions, please call Jim Towns, Chief Executive Officer at the phone numbers listed below.

If there are no Directors who have previously been President, the President shall appoint a director who has not previously been president to be a member of the Executive Committee." Director Velasquez seconded the amended motion, passed 13-2.

There was much discussion regarding this matter. Executive Director Catherine Smith reported that the third and final dues invoice has been mailed. Staff member David Stammerjohan will make one last follow-up call before the member is removed from the database. Smith reported that CSDA currently has 509 paid members.

Director Ausmus requested as a part of the membership recruitment plan, that the Board members who follow-up with members of their regions be sent a copy of the letters to targeted districts and a list divided between the Board members in that region to do follow-up calls.

Director David Lesser asked that John Fox, past CSDA Board member be added to the membership committee as a volunteer committee member. President Ehrlich for clarification mentioned that there is no reimbursement for volunteer committee members. Ehrlich reported that there would be no formal action to take place, but will it be considered at the next meeting.

Director Chuck Beesley reported that David Stammerjohan, Member Services Director, conducted a poll of how many chapter members are CSDA members. Beesley reported the results were 1/3 of the chapter members are CSDA members. Beesley reported that there was no formal recognition given to each chair member of the local chapters. Beesley explained it would be worth the effort to give some sort of recognition, i.e., ribbon, name badge, etc., to each local chapter chair at CSDA large events, i.e., Governmental Affairs Day and the Annual Conference, to enhance networking.

Placentia Library District

Placentia, California 92870

Attn: Elizabeth Minter
Library Director

Dear Elizabeth:

We are pleased to present our proposal to provide professional services for the Placentia Library District for the year ended June 30, 1999.

We will audit the balance sheet of Placentia Library District as of June 30, 1999, and the related statements of revenue, expenditures and changes in fund balances for the year then ended.

Our audit will be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and will include tests of your accounting records and other procedures we consider necessary to enable us to express an unqualified opinion that your financial statements are fairly presented, in all material respects, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. If our opinion is other than unqualified, we will fully discuss the reasons with you in advance.

Our procedures will include tests of documentary evidence supporting the transactions recorded in the accounts and direct confirmation of receivables and certain other assets and liabilities by correspondence with selected banks and the County of Orange. At the conclusion of our audit, we will also request certain written representations from you about the financial statements and related matters.

An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements; therefore, our audits will involve judgment about the number of transactions to be examined and the areas to be tested. Also, we will plan and perform the audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. However, because of the concept of reasonable assurance and because we will not perform a detailed examination of all transactions, there is a risk that material errors, irregularities, or illegal acts, including fraud or defalcations, may exist and not be detected by us. We will advise you, however, of any matters of that nature that come to our attention. Our responsibility as auditors is limited to the period covered by our audits.

We understand that you will provide us with the basic information required for our audit and that you are responsible for the accuracy and completeness of that information. We will advise you about appropriate accounting principles and their application and will assist in the preparation of your financial statements, but the responsibility for the financial statements remains with you. This responsibility includes the maintenance of adequate records and related internal control policies and procedures, the selection and application of accounting principles, and the safeguarding of assets. We understand that your employees will type all cash and other confirmations we request and will locate any invoices selected by us for testing.

Our audit is not specifically designed and cannot be relied on to disclose reportable conditions, that is, significant deficiencies in the design or operation of the internal control structure. However, during the audit, if we become aware of such reportable conditions or ways that we believe management practices can be improved, we will communicate them to you in a separate letter.

We would expect to begin our audit as soon as the books and records are closed for the year and available for audit. To complete the audit and issue our report on or before September 15, 1999, all information must be received by us no later than August 10, 1999.

Our fees for these services will be based on the actual time spent at our standard hourly rates. Our standard hourly rates vary according to the degree of responsibility involved and the experience level of the personnel assigned to your audit. Our invoices for these fees will be rendered each month as work progresses and are payable on presentation. Based on our preliminary estimates, we anticipate a target fee of $3,875 for the year ended June 30, 1999.

This estimate is based on anticipated cooperation from your personnel and the assumption that unexpected circumstances will not be encountered during the audit. If significant additional time is necessary, we will discuss it with you and arrive at a new fee estimate before we incur the additional costs.

We appreciate the opportunity to present our proposal to be of service to you and believe this letter accurately summarizes the significant terms of our engagement. If you have any questions, please let us know. If you agree with the terms of our engagement as described in this letter, please sign and return it to us.

Sincerely,

California Special Districts Association BOARD OF DIRECTORS

ELECTION 1999

INFORMATION AND PROCEDURES

The California Special Districts Association's (CSDA) Board of Directors is the governing body responsible for all policy decisions effecting CSDA's member services and legislative program. Its functions are crucial to the operation of the association and to the representation of the common interests of all California's special districts before the Legislature and the State Administration.

Serving on the Board requires one's interest in the issues confronting special districts statewide. In addition, it means traveling to Board meetings, usually 6 per year in various locations around the State. CSDA reimburses Board members for travel and accommodations associated with attendance at CSDA Board and committee meetings.

The Board's most important function is directing CSDA's government affairs program in Sacramento. Board members are intimately involved in the formulation of, and response to, legislation designed to improve the operation of special districts, and they are responsible for determining CSDA's position on the dozens of measures introduced each year impacting districts.

Election Rules

Each of CSDA's six (6) regional divisions has three seats on the Board. The accompanying chart indicates which seats are up for election in 1999. Candidates must be affiliated with a member district located within the geographic region that they seek to represent. Currently, Directors are nominated and elected by region by regular members attending the Annual Meeting held during the Annual Conference (September 22-24, 1999 at the Bahia Resort Hotel in San Diego). The officers of the Board of Directors are elected from the Board membership.

Directors elected from the six (6) regions will hold staggered, three (3) year terms. Individuals elected to fill unexpired terms will be up for reelection when original seat term expires.

Nomination Procedures

Any independent special district with current membership in CSDA is eligible to designate one person, such as a Board member or managerial employee (as defined by that district's Board of Directors) for election as a director of the California Special Districts Association by a member Board's resolution submitted no later than the annual CSDA membership meeting.

Candidates can mail their forms and resolutions to CSDA, 1121 L Street, Suite 508, Sacramento, CA 95814. To ensure the candidate's name is placed on the official ballot, materials should arrive in the CSDA office by September 10, 1999.

Candidates can be received prior to the conference and nominations will be taken from the floor at the Conference.

All regular CSDA members are encouraged to consider nominating a candidate for the CSDA Board of Directors.

The CSDA Board seat that is up for election is Seat C. The term expires September 2002.

Directors currently holding Seat C:

Region One	Carol Shelby
Region Two	Rita Velasquez
Region Three	Lee Howard
Region Four	David Aranda
Region Five	Jim Meredith
Region Six	Dewey Ausmus

Included in the elections mailing is a breakdown – by county – of the CSDA Board of Directors regions.

TO: Library Board of Trustees
FROM: Elizabeth D. Minter, Library Director EDM
SUBJECT: Review Library Revenue Issues and continue the discussion of the feasibility of Library Parcel Tax ballot issue.
DATE: July 21, 1999

BACKGROUND:

Library Revenue Issues

At its Meeting on April 15, 1997, the Board requested that an item for the discussion of Library Revenue Issues be included on each Agenda.

1. Property Tax

The State Budget does not include any reversal of the ERAF shift but it does include $200 Million in one time augmentation. At the present time the Legislature and Governor agree that a ballot referendum is to be offered next year to determine whether a permanent reversal of ERAF is to be implemented.

2. State Funds

The Public Library Fund was augmented by $18 Million

3. Local Revenues

Passport income surpassed the $4,000 level for the month of May.

Parcel Tax Election Considerations

The Placentia/Yorba Linda Unified School District has been conducting a telephone survey to determine whether to conduct a bond election for school construction.

The Orange County Registrar of Elections estimated last year that the cost of a special election for Placentia Library District would be between $40,000 and $63,000.

Funding for a Placentia Library District special election in one of several ways:

1. Setting aside any revenues received during the next several years more than the budgeted amount

2. The District should receive the balance of its bankruptcy-related refunds from Orange County sometime before the end of 1999. This is estimated to be around $40,000.
3. The District has $32,500 in its Payroll Certificates of Deposit that are available for use in emergencies.

Once the date for a special election is determined, the financing can be arranged to have the least possible impact on the day-to-day operations of the Library.

If the Parcel Tax Election is successful the funds to conduct the election may be replaced in whatever account they came from.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

Give direction for future action

Keep option open - transfer $625 grant to future extent of parcel tax interest.

FROM: Elizabeth D. Minter, Library Director Edy

SUBJECT: Presentation by Nancy Rorabaugh, Energy Services Consultant with IEC, regarding the District's initiation of an energy conservation study

DATE: July 21, 1999

BACKGROUND

Placentia Library District has been participating in the work of the North Orange County Energy Consortium for the past several years. Part of the work of this group has been evaluating various energy and cost savings programs.

The State of California offers a program to assist public agencies with the implementation of energy-saving projects. It provides that actual savings in energy costs must offset the cost of the project over a specified period. IEC is a company that manages such projects for public agencies.

During the past month District staff has been working with Nancy Rorabaugh of IEC to determine whether Placentia Library District is a viable candidate for this program.

Ms. Rorabaugh will be present at the Board Meeting to make a presentation about IEC's services and to request the Board's endorsement of proceeding with this project.

Attachment A is the text of the letter of authorization that IEC is requesting from Placentia Library District.

RECOMMENDATION

1. Authorize IEC to proceed with engineering surveys, and prepare a proposal and contract documents covering engineering, equipment retrofits, and energy conservation measures on the lighting, heating, ventilation, and air conditioning equipment at Placentia Library
2. Authorize the Library Director to sign the Letter of Authorization

RE: Letter of Authorization

Dear Ms. Rorabaugh:

At its meeting on July 21, 1999, the Placentia Library District Board of Trustees authorized IEC, Inc. to proceed and complete engineering surveys, and prepare a proposal and contract documents covering engineering, equipment retrofits, and energy conservation measures on the lighting, heating, ventilation, and air conditioning equipment at Placentia Library. It is the Board's understanding that there is no financial obligation associated with IEC, Inc. developing the above mentioned survey, proposal, and documents.

It is also the Board's understanding that IEC, Inc. will offer a contract that focuses on using energy and operational savings where possible to offset the costs of any proposed program. The contract will be negotiated with IEC, Inc. in compliance with the provisions of California Government Code, Chapter 3.2, Section 4217.10, Energy Conservation Contracts.

IEC, Inc. will provide documents detailing the improvements to be made and the exact program cost and savings. IEC, Inc. will provide all necessary contract documents for execution by August 18, 1999. If the proposal that IEC, Inc. provides meets all of the District's technical and financial requirements, as co-authored by IEC, Inc. and Library Administration, it is the Board's intent to enter into an agreement with IEC, Inc.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth D. Minter

FROM: HISTORY ROOM COMMITTEE

SUBJECT: HISTORY ROOM ACCESS

BACKGROUND

The History Room has been over the years available for patron access by requesting Reference Desk personnel to unlock the door to the room. No staff supervision of the room is otherwise provided. Expectation is that a record of usage is maintained indicating patron's name, date, and purpose. In recent years, a guest book has been provided within the room for the documentation of usage to relieve reference desk staff of this responsibility.

Reference desk personnel have made the room available upon request for those wishing to use the materials available within the room.

Recent request for extraordinary usage

Recently a demand was made by a patron to utilize the History Room as an enclosed study space unrelated to the room's purpose. Reference desk personnel rejected this request citing the actual purpose of the room. Other quiet study places within the library were offered and were rejected by the patron. Staff is concerned that acceding to this request would set a precedent; it would also provide an advantage which could not be extended to an additional patron wishing the same accommodation since no other such space is available.

Patron's Demand

This patron wanted to see the policy which restricted the usage of the room to local history research. No policy exists.

History Room Committee's Considerations

Attending: Suad Ammar, Julie Shook, *Pat Irot, *Pat Jertberg,
*Marie Schmidt ... June 16, 1999

The History Room volunteers, indicated by *above, have had long standing concerns about the vulnerability of the materials located within the room. In an unsupervised environment, work in progress is subject to visitors' access, the artifacts within the glass cases are unsecured; the data entry on the computer could be jeopardized. Many of the books in the collection are valuable one-of-a-kind, some out of print; they have been reviewed to be assured they have the security strips. However, the committee is concerned about loss.

Certainly, the purpose of the collection is to provide for patrons with interest in local history. Until such time as work-in-progress is properly organized and possible additional space is provided, the committee recommends that access be limited. Until work in progress is organized and greater security can be provided, the committee wishes to close the room to casual access and offers to open the room by appointment. Volunteers would require proper documentation of patron usage, indicating amount of time, quality of materials, ease of access, which can provide guidance to the committee.

The committee wishes to establish posted rules based on these observations, closing the room temporarily and offering to be available by appointment for patron needs. This would provide security of materials within the History Room.

It is important to note that the work of the committee is in the all important organizational stage with data entry in progress; the materials' preservation stage is still ahead.

RECOMMENDATION:

1. Restrict the usage of the History Room to patrons needing information about local history.
2. Approve, ^{until Nov 30, 1999} for an interim period, closure of the History Room; with access available by appointment with History Room volunteers.

PLACENTIA

The police facility and City Hall were evacuated Monday after a bomb scare. According to police spokesman Matt Reynolds, "a man came in, dropped a canvas carry-on suitcase on the floor and ran out." The sheriff's Bomb Squad was called and the civic center cleared. By the time staff returned, the bag had been X-rayed, opened and found to contain only old clothes. The suspect, known to police as having mental problems, was found behind the library, questioned and released.

Café Service in Public Libraries

Noreen Reese

Considering whether to offer a coffee service? A survey of nineteen libraries that have or still offer coffee service to patrons offers some helpful insight.

When you picture someone "curling up with a good book" does that picture include an overstuffed chair, an afghan, a mug of steaming hot coffee, and a plate filled with cookies? Does reading the morning newspaper include eating a doughnut or muffin while sipping that coffee that jump starts your day? That combination of reading with drinking and eating has led many libraries to consider offering cafés, coffee carts, or kiosks for their customers. Many are not just selling coffee and muffins, but are attempting to sell the ambiance of the coffee culture.

Many bookstores have targeted this market; the large chains such as Borders and Barnes & Noble have included coffee shops in their stores. The question as to whether libraries should imitate bookstores has been hotly debated on discussion lists and in library literature. It was the cover story in the March 1998 issue of American Libraries. One of the big draws at some bookstore chains is the coffee shop. How does a public library determine if this should be part of its service program? First, take a close look at the community. Are coffee shops part of the local picture? Are they successful? Do customers pick up bagels and muffins at the local grocery store, or do they go to specialty shops? Are the bagel and coffee shops selling something more than food and beverages? How are these shops decorated? Is the furniture designed to encourage lingering? Are customers "reading" in these establishments?

Our Coffee Culture

Coffee is not just a beverage in our culture. It is a part of our social grain. We start our day with coffee and end our dinner with it. We meet for coffee, have coffee breaks at work, and stop for coffee. Coffee-related gift items include cups, thermos dispensers, and travel mugs. You may have your name, occupation, hobby, child's picture, or favorite saying on your favorite mug. More recently, coffee drinkers have developed a taste for specialty coffees, and many of them own coffee grinders, espresso machines, or cappuccino makers.

The number of retail coffee outlets in the United States in the 1970s was approximately 250. In 1999, that number is expected to reach ten thousand. The development and rise of this specialty coffee industry has caught the interest of many public libraries.

These specialty coffee firms are continually investigating the potential of new sites for their outlets. Are libraries an obvious location? It was the large coffee chains that recognized the "book connection" early on, when Starbucks partnered with Barnes & Noble. Starbucks currently has one library location in the Multnomah County (Ore.) Library. Cathy Alloway, director of the Hershey (Pa.) Public Library was approached by a coffee vendor who hadn't considered a library location until he read about library involvement in one of his coffee trade journals. Whether coffee service will flourish at the local library has yet to be determined.

Libraries and Food Service: An Update of the 1993 PLA Research

In 1993 the Retail Outlets in Public Libraries Committee of the Public Library Association produced "Food Service in Public Libraries." It included responses to a survey of libraries in five states. Six libraries provided coffee service that ranged from vending machines to complete restaurants. Since that time, two of those libraries expanded, one downsized, and one eliminated the coffee service. (Two of the libraries' service was unchanged.) Service at the Los Angeles Public Library changed from an espresso cart to a food court featuring three different types of foods. Huntington Beach (Calif.) Public Library maintains its vending-machine service and has added a coffee cart. The full-service restaurant and catering business at the Broward County (Fla.) Main continues to serve approximately 350 people for lunch every day. Boulder (Colo.) Public Library's espresso bar is in its fifth year and on its third vendor and continues as originally envisioned. Irving (Tex.) Public Library continues with one less hot drink machine than in 1993, while Geauga County (Ohio) Public Library eliminated the machines in 1995.

In considering whether or not to offer a coffee service at the Warren-Newport Public Library, the author identified and surveyed thirteen more libraries located in ten different states. Three of these thirteen eliminated the food service after less than one year, but two of those libraries would consider offering some form of café/coffee shop in the future.

Nine out of the thirteen libraries surveyed are happy with what they offer and plan to maintain the same level of food service. Hershey (Pa.) Public Library offers the smallest service, a coffee and muffin cart operated by volunteers. The other eight offer cafés or coffee bars that seem to work more successfully in libraries.

Types of Coffee Service

There are, broadly speaking, four different types of coffee-specialty establishments: carts, coffee bars, cafés, and coffeehouses. Cart service has two main advantages: the small amount of space required (85 sq. ft. to 125 sq. ft.), and the low start-up budget of $15,000 to $30,000. A cart is portable, and if a location doesn't work the operator can move somewhere else. Coffee bars include specialty and gourmet coffees along with baked items and other sweets. A coffee bar is usually 400 sq. ft. to 1,200 sq. ft. and requires a $45,000 to $125,000 start-up budget. A café usually serves both lunch and dinner and has a sizable menu. A café is typically 1,000 sq. ft. to 1,500 sq. ft. A start-up budget for this operation could range from $75,000 to $195,000. In a coffeehouse, ambiance is extremely important. They usually have dim lighting, comfortable sofas and chairs, and may offer programming such as poetry readings. The emphasis here is on long visits, stimulating conversation, and strong java. You may also find a small library within a coffeehouse. Space requirements are approximately 1,200 sq. ft. to 2,200 sq. ft. A rather large start-up budget is necessary ranging anywhere from $95,000 to $275,000. Marketing is essential for the success of this type of coffee service and the price of rent frequently determines the risk involved.

Space availability is usually the determining factor for a library when considering which of these four services to offer. Among the surveyed libraries are examples of cart, coffee bar, and café service in libraries. The coffeehouse concept appears to take this service to a different level. The Broward County (Fla.) Main Library, however, expressed an interest in opening its restaurant at night to host book and author events that would add the programming element of a coffeehouse.

Purpose of Coffee Service

Some of the reasons for offering coffee or café service to library patrons include:

- an added amenity;
- the community expects it;
- a source of additional revenue;
- a fund-raising venture for the Friends of the Library;
- the library is located close to schools, and the children need a place where they can purchase food and beverages after school;
- a library trend;

- a special attraction for our senior population;
- a drawing card for clientele who might be big library supporters;
- an attraction for community business leaders; and
- a way to develop the role of the library as a community center.

When considering reasons for offering this service, it is very important to determine if the library expects a financial profit. How a library is governed may determine why a service is offered and who will benefit from it. Broward County Main Library leases library space to the café operators for $42,000 annually. This sum goes into the county general fund. All proceeds from the vending machines in the Irving (Tex.) Public Library benefit the city employees' organization.

Another example of a library café run for profit is the Multnomah County Library. The library employs a coordinator of entrepreneurial activities who last year posted a Web site titled, "The Official Web site for Entrepreneurial Libraries." In it he explains that Starbucks pays a $1,000 monthly rental, or 10 percent of the gross profits, whichever is higher, in order to operate the espresso bar at the library. Starbucks also has agreed to participate in library sponsorships. One of the more interesting of these was the "Better Latte than Never" campaign. Starbucks created, produced, and mailed 65,000 postcards to library patrons whose fines disallowed them from borrowing materials. In exchange for paying their fines, Starbucks gave them free drinks.

Expectations about financial rewards varied widely among the libraries surveyed. At one end of the spectrum was the "Mugs 'n Muffins" cart at Rolling Meadows (Ill.) Library that broke even using volunteers. At the end of the experiment, the cart was left unattended and an honor payment system was used. Most libraries expected to make some money but saw this more as a service issue rather than a money-making venture. Several libraries, however, hoped that café service would increase revenue. Roseville (Minn.) Library hired a consultant to investigate ways for the library to increase revenue; his recommendation was to open a coffee shop.

A public library must be very clear as to why it wants to offer a service and whether it expects a profit. Everyone involved in the effort should understand the library's perspective on these two points.

The Organizational Effort

Once a library decides that coffee or café service should be part of the service program, the process of deciding who, what, how, when, and where to offer it begins. "Location, location, location," is frequently the determining factor in the success or failure of café service. If the only space available is in the basement far away from any entrance, it may be impossible to convince customers to walk that far, as evidenced by the canteen experiment at Fountaindale Public Library in Bollingbrook, Illinois. The basement location was cited as one of the reasons that the venture failed. Even parents waiting for their preschool-aged children who were attending story hours were reluctant to visit the basement café. The library even considered moving the story hours to the basement meeting rooms but determined that it would be too inconvenient for the staff to move all of their programming materials.

The ideal location for café service is near the entrance; it would also be an advantage if the café were close to a meeting room. A cart or kiosk involves less space, but the area should be very visible and be able to accommodate a few benches. A full-service café needs adequate space for seating, counter, preparation, and storage.

To Outsource or Not to Outsource

Once a viable location for the service has been identified, the library needs to determine whether the service will be operated by the library or outsourced. Leasing the space involves finding someone with the expertise and credentials to run a successful operation that will meet the standards that you set. Maintaining the entire operation involves that and much more.

If the library decides to operate the service, it may reap greater profits, but it also assumes a much greater risk. Libraries that decide to go it alone should consider that 80 percent of all businesses fail in their first five years. They should be prepared to put in the time, effort, and staffing levels necessary to build a new business. Marian Amodeo explained that the Newington (Conn.) Public Library spent the first year learning how to operate the coffee service. No revenues were realized. Prices had to be raised and operations streamlined. The coffee bar is popular, and Amodeo feels that it will be profitable, but she pointed out that this was a very different endeavor for the library to tackle.

If the library decides to outsource, choosing the right vendor is critical. More than one library spokesperson stressed that cooperation between the library and the vendor is vital to the success of the service. Janet Lyon from the Huntington Beach (Calif.) Public Library noted, "It is important that the library wants their vendor to succeed and commits to working with and accommodating them whenever possible."

The Product

Whether the library runs the facility or outsources it, the coffee service must stock items that are locally popular and within a price range that the targeted customer will accept. If it hopes to draw library staff as customers, the service must offer items that they can afford. Specialty coffees, muffins, scones, pastries, bakery goods, bagels, fruit, juices, and cookies are the most popular items currently sold at library cafés. The addition of sandwiches, soups, and salads will attract a lunch crowd. Several libraries surveyed have added or plan to add these items. Full-service restaurant meals and catering services are available at some larger libraries. All of these restaurant-type operations are outsourced. The primary distinction between a coffee bar/café and a restaurant operation is on-site food preparation. Café and coffee-bar operations may offer warmed food, but rarely prepare any food from scratch. When allowing food preparation on site, a library must deal with additional considerations including food odors and increased pest-control responsibilities.

The Request for Proposal

If the service is to be outsourced, a request for proposal, or RFP, frequently is used to elicit bids from potential vendors. The RFP usually lists very specific criteria that the potential vendor must address. The RFP is an excellent tool for comparing as well as screening interested vendors.

Typically, an RFP advertisement is published in local newspapers and sent to known vendors. An RFP for café service should cover all aspects of the proposed operation including: a description of the property or premises, terms of the lease along with extension options, rent, a description of service and utility responsibilities, insurance responsibilities, accepted hours of operation, tax responsibilities, hiring and employment practices, the vendor-selection process, grounds for rejection of a proposal, requirements of bidders to attend meetings or tours, deadlines for submission of the RFP, and a time schedule for vendor selection. Interviews of qualified applicants should be held to clarify any questions as well as determine negotiable points.

Analysis and Conclusions

The libraries viewed starting out small as helpful in determining customer response. No matter what type of service offered, however, total commitment is needed to fairly evaluate the service. Even when offering a food service as basic as vending machines, it is important to offer it well. It would be unfair to label the service as unsuccessful if the machines are not filled regularly and the area is not kept clean.

Unless someone on the library staff has expertise in food-service or business operations, or the library is willing to hire someone with this background, outsourcing appears to make the most sense.

The topic that elicited the strongest opinions in the numerous conversations during this study was whether beverages should be allowed in the library proper. (Of the nineteen libraries surveyed, only one allowed food in the library.) Yet vendors don't want to limit their customer base because of a policy that prohibits customers from taking beverages into the library. It makes better business sense for a vendor to view the entire library as seating potential for the business. On the other hand, library staff and administrators worry about property damage even though there is no evidence to support this concern. Six of the nineteen libraries studied allowed beverages anywhere in the library proper. Most interviewees expressed surprise at what a nonissue this was. The most substantial spillage damage reported was one computer keyboard.

Every day library customers take materials home and read or listen to them while eating and drinking. It appears that we should be more concerned about water damage occurring while patrons read in their bathtubs. It is prudent for libraries to diminish the risk of property damage, however, by requiring lids on all beverages. This study produced nothing that would support the need for a policy restricting beverages in the library due to property-damage concerns.

It is critical to know the community to determine whether or not to offer café service. If coffee bars and cafés are popular in the community, you may want to consider the service. There is more risk involved if a library decides to be the first in the area to offer such a service. Jumping on the wagon makes more sense than building the first bandwagon. Knowing the community's food preferences helps to determine which food products to offer. Muffins, cookies, and basic coffees may fit one library's customers while biscotti, scones, fancy salads, bagel sandwiches, and a variety of specialty coffees may suit another clientele.

It seems likely that café/coffee service in libraries will continue to grow. As it does, librarians will be able to learn more about the best ways to offer this service. It will be interesting to revisit this topic in two or three years to see what's perking! ■

What is administration and what is setting policy?

10 questions that separate policy from management

Board members, acting as a group, set policies and goals for the administrator to implement. Policies and goals should affect the entire organization and dictate what it will do.

Board members do not implement policy—that's the administrator's responsibility. He or she is hired to run the day-to-day affairs of the nonprofit.

This is a standard way of explaining the concept of "Who does What". If you want to further clarify the matter on your board, work through the following exercise. "Yes" answers to the statements indicate your board does a good job of focusing on policy. ■

1988 Public Library Referenda

Part 1 of this year's referenda feature illustrates that funding levels for CONSTRUCTION projects remain high, but voters say, "Nay," more often

Referenda Resistance

By Richard B. Hall

TIMES and economics certainly have changed the library referenda tableau. We acknowledged the void in data collection on these elections back in 1987, and our first feature in 1988 included 54 referenda that attempted to raise $242 million for capital improvements. Though the number of projects has remained constant, the amount of money involved has skyrocketed. In fact, the amount of money approved this year exceeded the total amount sought in 1987.

Nevertheless, the last two years have seen greater resistance to approving the ever-increasing amounts requested. This year voters rejected $112 million in capital funds in contrast to a 12-year average of $69 million. Last year they voted down $123 million in capital funding. It would seem that voters are just distrustful of referenda, equating them with the electoral process in general and therefore assuming acceptance puts money into the hands of politicians. Or we may just be experiencing another backlash from citizens tired of shelling out money, even if it is for a cherished institution like their library.

Richard B. Hall, Library Consultant, California State Library, is the author of Winning Library Referenda Campaigns and Financing Public Library Buildings, both published by Neal-Schuman

*Referenda that failed

There were 55 library referenda for capital outlay purposes this year, which was a slight decrease from last year's 58 campaigns. Still, the number of capital campaigns reported was above the 12-year average of 50 campaigns per year. Of the 55 referenda (see Table 1) held in search of capital funds between July 1, 1997 and June 30, 1998, 39 campaigns (71%) were successful, 16 failed. As Table 2 shows, this is below the average success rate of 79% for the combined data collected for the past 12 years (1987 to 1998).

Funding levels

The $361 million in funding sought this year was the third highest in 12 years of collecting data, exceeded only by FY89 ($394 million) and FY97 ($368 million) and well above the 12-year average of $262 million. This year, 69% ($249 million) of all funds sought was approved by the voters, with $112 million (31%) rejected. This is the fourth highest funding rejection rate ever, behind only FY94, when 49% of the money sought was rejected by the electorate, and FY97 and FY89, when 33% was rejected. Only in the same three previous years, FY89 ($129 million), FY94 ($120 million), and FY97 ($123 million) was a higher amount of money turned back by the voters. The $112 million rejected this year is well above the $69 million per year average for the 12 years of data collection.

While it is too early to tell if this is a trend, the last two years have been well above the average rates both in terms of the actual amount of money rejected as well as the percentage of money rejected. On the other hand, the $249 million approved this year is the third highest amount ever approved in the last 12 years and well above the 12-year average of $193 million.

Voter approval rate

When the percentages of votes for and against all of the 1998 referenda are averaged, the national percentage of affirmative votes is 62%, which is just below the 12-year combined average approval rate of 64%. Nationally, library capital ballot measure campaigns consistently receive over 60% of the vote (only 1992 was below 60% at 59%).

Special vs. general elections

In 1998, 60% of the referenda were held during general elections, which is slightly below the 12-year average of 62%. In comparing the success rates of referenda held during special and general elections, it appears that special elections still have a slight edge. This year the difference in the approval rate was minimal (73% approval rate for special elections, compared to 70% for general elections); however, over the 12 years, the data show that referenda held during special elections passed 85% of the time compared to only 76% of those held during general elections.

This difference in the approval rate between special and general elections should be taken with a grain of salt by local library campaign planners. What is by far more important than a national average in the consideration of when to place the library measure on the ballot is the local economic and political environment. There are so many local variables to be considered that a slight advantage on average for special elections might almost be considered inconsequential.

Major campaigns

As is typically the case, a relatively few campaigns accounted for a large percentage of the money placed before the voters. Table 4 shows the 11 major capital campaigns that accounted for 65% of the funding attempted last year.

AKRON, OH $80 million; Passed: 59%

The Akron campaign to authorize the sale of $80 million of general obligation (GO) bonds was the largest library capital campaign held this year. The measure provided $2 million each for 15 branch libraries ($30 million) and $50 million for the main library. In addition to packaging the branch libraries together with the main library project, library supporters attribute their success to an extensive public information process that was implemented well before the political campaign even started.

Since all of the proposed branches had been built in the 1950s or earlier, the need for new libraries was obvious. The main library need was equally apparent, with 6.5 miles of library materials in storage in the basement (including half of the audiovisual collection) and only 35 parking spaces to serve a main library with over half a million patron visits per year. Fortunately, there was no controversy between the need for the branch libraries vs. the main library, and, further, there was no significant organized opposition to the measure.

Regardless of the quality of the preliminary spadework, library supporters didn't rest on their laurels. They hired a political consultant who created an aggressive campaign strategy that included door-to-door canvassing, three mailings (including one to absentee voters that arrived in the mail the same day their absentee ballots did), yard signs, and a get-out-the-vote (GOTV) phone bank along with poll greeters and a radio ad.

Taking nothing for granted, campaign officials worked hard right up to election day. They knew their message was getting through when one of them approached the front porch of a potential voter, and the resident looked up and immediately responded with the campaign slogan: "I know, I know, 'Its Overdue!'"

ELGIN, IL $28.0 million; Failed: 45%

Unfortunately, the library supporters for the Elgin, IL, library campaign weren't as successful in getting their main message through to the voters. Even though an operating levy had previously passed at a 72% level, supporters were unable to convince a majority of the electorate to vote to replace their 30-year-old building, originally constructed in 1965 when the service area had a population of 55,000. That population had grown to 100,000 in 1997 and was projected to be 165,000 in 20 years.

The library management knew that the facility would soon be incapable of providing a reasonable level of service, but the campaign was unable to effectively communicate that fact. The building looked in reasonably good condition and wasn't visibly crowded, so wouldn't be a diminution of library services. In addition, the opposition played upon local east/west discord in the community, which is divided by a river. The side of the community that wasn't many in the community couldn't understand the urgent need for a new building. In other words, the need may have been there, but it wasn't apparent enough to voters.

This situation wasn't helped when opposition to the measure attacked the library measure, claiming that a new building wasn't necessary and that an going to get the library was encouraged to vote against the measure even though the site picked for the new facility was strategically located to serve the entire population.

By the time election day rolled around even some of the library supporters were confused about the need for the measure, and, as often is the addition would suffice. Further, the opposition did a last-minute mailing to targeted precincts saying that if the ballot were approved it would double taxes and if it weren't approved, there really case, when voters are unsure about a ballot measure, they vote "No." Given the low voter turnout of a special election, the impact of the opposition, the ambivalence of library supporters as well as general voter apathy, the measure only obtained 45 percent of the vote, well short of the necessary majority. The next time the measure is put before the voters, library supporters will probably place it on a general election and will do more targeted mailings to library supporters and special precincts. Finally, the measure will have to wait until the library building is more visibly crowded and services start to noticeably erode. This is exactly what the library management was trying to avoid.

TULSA, OK
$22.0 million; Passed: 72%

The successful Tulsa ballot measure was to provide money to remodel the central library along with 16 branches, expand six branches, and build two new ones. Library supporters made sure that every neighborhood would gain something from the measure. This campaign, unlike previous ones in Tulsa, was the classic low-key, or "silent," campaign; it avoided an all-out media blitz. By design, the strategy was to have the measure decided at a special election where there would be no competing measures and voters would be focused on the library issue. Supporters were so confident of their approach that they even paid the $85,000 required to hold the special election.

Ten years earlier, the library had sold bonds for a facility expansion program, and those bonds were now paid off. The new bond measure would simply take the place of the old one and therefore wouldn't require an increase in taxes. In addition to spreading the benefit around to the entire community, library supporters campaigned primarily on their previous record: they had delivered the improved libraries approved ten years earlier. Now it was time to upgrade the facilities. The library had a history of providing very good service, and, as a result, there were a lot of satisfied customers. In short, the people liked what they have gotten from the library in the past, and they trusted the library to continue to deliver high-quality service.

This kind of credibility with the electorate can't be bought with glossy campaign literature or slick media ads. It comes from years of hard work and the honest delivery of the kind of library service that is important to every individual in the community. It is the single most potent weapon in the arsenal of any library campaign committee. When people believe in what the library does so much that they are willing to stand outside in the rain on election day and hand out reminders to vote, it's hard to lose. The resultant 72% landslide victory for libraries in Tulsa speaks volumes.

FORT SMITH, AR
$17.5 million; Passed: 53%

The library campaign in Fort Smith, AR, did not have the support of the mayor or the local chamber of commerce, both of which were supporting two competing ballot measures: one for an improved civic center and the other for riverfront development. Additionally, there was some organized opposition, but it was not significant and amounted to a few residents putting up signs because they felt the location of management, and, ultimately, laid the groundwork for the involvement of the community.

Like so many library campaigns, the grassroots volunteer approach worked well here. While no outside consultants were hired for the .5¢ citywide sales tax measure, library supporters previously had experience with several measures and knew that a door-to-door canvassing campaign with yard signs was an effective way to reach the voters in their community. The campaign did run a few newspaper ads, but no TV or radio spots were produced in this relatively low-budget effort. In the end, 53% of the voters said "Yes" to the $17.5 million library measure.

HOUSTON, TX
$15.0 million; Passed: 65%

The Harris County ballot measure was for a GO bond to finance five new branch libraries. The library projects were part of a countywide package of libraries, parks, roads, and bridges. The campaign for all of the measures was put together by a working group of businesspeople whose primary campaign tactic was to produce and run TV and radio commercials. Library Friends also handed out library flyers, but the main message of the campaign was simply to "Improve the Quality of Life" in the county. County government was essentially saying, "This is what we are going to do for you if you approve the money."

Fortunately for the library, the voters trusted their county government to do what they said they would do, and they approved the ballot measure for the library by an overwhelming 65%, which was the highest voter approval rate of all of the measures on the ballot. It's nice to see that at least in some communities there are still residents who have confidence in their local elected officials and that the distrust of government isn't totally pervasive.

How many times have we all heard the response from library campaign opponents who claim, "I'm not against the library, I'm just against giving the politicians more money by raising taxes"? Library supporters are much more likely to be successful if voters understand they are voting to give the money to the public library and not to "big" government. ■ the new library would create increased traffic in their neighborhood.

Again, the library measure was a package deal with the central library project and three branches. The main message for the campaign was "A Library in Your Neighborhood." The plan was to have every resident be within two and a half miles of a library building. Like the Akron campaign (above), the primary reason for the success of this campaign was the preliminary study sessions well in advance of the ballot measure decision, which informed people of the library's capital expansion plan. Further, years before, storefront libraries were opened in the general locations planned for the branch libraries. People responded well to this step-by-step approach, which built interest, confidence in library

Part 2 of referenda shows that while property taxes may not be the best solution for obtaining OPERATING FUNDS, libraries continue to use them successfully

The Voter Vacuum

By Anne M. Turner

PROPERTY TAXES, widely used by municipalities to bankroll their libraries' operating funds, are fundamentally flawed. The problem is they are static, a relic of our agrarian past that have little to do with current economic or demographic reality. And, as my somewhat jaundiced city manager remarked recently, "The feds and the state have already taken the best tax (the income tax) and left local government (and libraries) with the crumbs." The best tax is one that reflects the local economy, allowing government services to expand or contract in concert with the local ability to pay for them. This fiscal flexibility has given impetus to libraries in California, Texas, Arizona, and wherever else it is legal to seriously explore sales tax revenue measures in the future.

Who's showing up?

That said, we must deal with the current reality, that the fate of additional library expenditures, whether for construction or operations, rests in the hands of those who show up at the ballot box—if they show up at all. Judging by this year's 107 responses, libraries continue (in FY98) to maintain a high success rate (83%) in their effort to secure additional operational funding. Libraries had 82% of their referenda passed in FY97, 84% in FY96.

Further, of the 18 that failed (89 passed), five actually won favorable majorities, which were later discounted because of peculiar state laws. Tables 1 through Table 5 divide the operating fund ballot measures into categories by revenue amount. In the "Less than $100,000" group, there were 17 ballot measures, and 16 of them passed. The lone failure was Fern Ridge, OR, where a solid approval got trapped in that state's election law, which requires a 50% turnout of registered voters for funding measures to be valid. Only 38.1% came to the polls.

Among the 40 libraries in the "$100,000 to $500,000" category, ten went down to defeat. Two of these also were in Oregon and two more from Illinois, which will be discussed below.

There was one failure and 11 wins in the "$500,000 to $1 million" range, with the majority being school district libraries in New York State. Among the libraries in the "$1 million to $5 million" range, 29 passed and four failed. One of the failures was yet another Oregon library, which won 59% 41% but lost because of the election law, requiring a minimum turnout for passage. The other three losses were by overwhelming margins, and, frustratingly, two of them were asking for funds to operate new facilities that the voters had approved.

The next category, "More than $5 million," includes

Anne M. Turner is Director, Santa Cruz City-County Library System, CA. She is the author of Getting Political (Neal-Schuman, 1997), It Comes with the Territory (McFarland, 1993), and the forthcoming Vote Yes for Libraries! (McFarland, spring 2000)

large urban libraries, starting with Toledo-Lucas County in Ohio, which won $5.7 million, and then jumping to requests exceeding $10 million: Cleveland and Multnomah County (Portland, OR), which also passed, and measures in Contra-Costa County in the San Francisco Bay Area and the aforementioned Miami-Dade County in Florida, both of which failed.

Can't win for losing

I'd place libraries from four states in a "Can't Win for Losing" category—either because of their election laws or demographic peculiarities. For example, more than half of the questionnaire responses (56 of 107) came from libraries in New York State, where the law requires that school and library budget increases are subject to voter approval. This includes an association (private) library that receives some money, which explains why the Stony Creek Library in the Adirondacks reported a $500 ballot measure last year.

I asked a Long Island librarian whether it wasn't a waste of time and money to be constantly mounting ballot measure campaigns just to fund normal cost increases. "Well," she said, "it is a way for the citizens to control taxes. And we haven't had too much trouble." She's right; only one of the 56 New York measures was defeated.

In Illinois, five of the seven ballot measures failed. All of the failures were in what Daniel Zack, the director of the Gail Borden Public Library in Elgin, calls the "collar" counties around Chicago. Over the last 20 years these areas have experienced tremendous growth, requiring high property taxes to keep up with school building infrastructure development, etc. Voters apparently find it hard to understand the need for more money to support growth in services, too.

Stay at home equals failure

Zack also points out that six of the seven measures and only one of the successes were on the ballot in a low turnout election—March 1998. Although the conventional wisdom has always been that tax measures are best put before the voters in off-years, Zack believes this tactic no longer works. Recent research supports his view. It concludes that antitax activists benefit from low-turnout elections because they get their voters to the polls. It is the pro-services and, specifically, pro-libraries people who are guilty of apathy on election day and must be persuaded to vote if we expect to win.

The stay-at-home phenomenon also plagued Oregon libraries. In a statewide election held in May 1998 in which five libraries had property tax measures on the ballot, four of the five passed but were disqualified because of low voter turnout. In November, the Multnomah County Library (Portland) squeaked by with a 51%-49% victory, on the same ballot as a physician-assisted suicide measure.

Whose sales tax is it anyway?

Then there is my home state of California, where five libraries were on the ballot, three of them for sales-tax measures. Solano County passed its sales tax proposal with 68.1% of the vote. Contra Costa County passed, too, but, heartbreakingly, fell two points short of the state supermajority requirement of 66.6%. Two other libraries passed property tax measures, both garnering the required two-thirds, which isn't easy.

I asked several library directors around the country why more libraries weren't opting for sales tax measures. The responses ranged from "it isn't legal here" to "because we've always had the property tax." One director pointed out that if the library proposed going for sales tax instead of property tax support, the current sales tax recipients would fight them tooth and nail as interlopers, even if they were proposing added sales taxes.

Another entrant to my "Can't Win for Losing" category is the Miami-Dade PL System. Just four weeks before a countywide election scheduled for November 14, 1997, the Miami-Dade County Commission decided to throw a two-year, $30 million property tax measure on the ballot to replenish the library's Book Trust. There had been no advance planning, no fundraising, no preparation at all. With a hastily raised $20,000, library supporters bought media time, obtained endorsements, put together mailings, and worked to get the word out. They explained that the additional cost to a household would be no more than the price of an average hardcover book.

1997 Public Library Referenda

The library lost, 40%-60%, for two reasons: low voter turnout and the other measure that was on the ballot. Only 12% of the registered voters cast ballots. And a big majority of those who did vote live in the City of Miami, where the ballot also contained a hotly contested runoff election for mayor. It was the library's bad luck that the runoff brought out legions of very conservative, antitax voters.

Two success stories

Finally, let's look at two success stories. The first is in Houma, LA, the home of the Terrebonne Parish Library. This library had three tax elections in two years, which sounds like a nightmare if ever there was one. The first, in January 1997, was for increased property tax millage. The library lost badly. In October 1997 the board decided to go back to the voters for a renewal of the existing tax, knowing full well that it wasn't enough to operate the library but not wanting to interrupt service. That measure passed. Then in April 1998 the board again went to the voters, this time with a sales tax proposal. Needing only a simple majority, it passed by 52%.

As Director Mary Cosper LeBoeuf commented in a letter accompanying her questionnaire, "The irony is that the election that was defeated in January 1997 would have generated the same money as the .25¢ sales tax. The sales tax is paid by everyone; whereas, the property tax is only paid by land- and homeowners...." With all due respect to LeBoeuf, her comment overlooks the fact that tenants also pay property tax through the portion of their rents calculated for that purpose.

Until recently, public libraries in Texas have been private institutions funded by a variety of sources. But now the state legislature has authorized the creation of library districts. The Westbank Community Library District outside Austin was encouraged to take the lead in forming such a district and going to the voters for funding. The Westbank library board decided to contract for an opinion poll in advance, for the usual reasons: to find out what the voters care about and the chances for passage of a new tax for libraries.

The polling consultant, who was a self-described bookstore user, turned out to be so negative about public libraries that the staff had to fight to get the right questions asked. However, he was suitably chastened by the positive numbers his poll produced. The board agreed to go to the voters with what Director Beth Wheeler Fox reports were actually three issues on the January 17, 1998 ballot: one creating the district, one adopting a sales tax to fund it, and another electing a slate of trustees. The whole shebang was passed 84%-16%. May that polling consultant spend the rest of his days wandering aimlessly in a megabookstore, looking for something published before 1998. ■
